Further regulations are regulated in the respective part of the race announcement or in the series regulations.

15. STARTING GRID AND STARTING MODE

Unless otherwise specified in the series regulations, the following applies to all races:

15.1. THE STARTING GRID

- The provisional starting grid will be published as soon as possible. The final starting grid will be determined and published at least 30 minutes before the start. Any competitor who will not or cannot participate in the race must inform the Race Director/Race Director in writing of their non-participation no later than 45 minutes before the start of the race. The starting grid will be adjusted accordingly. The vehicles must be lined up at the pre-start at least 20 minutes before the start time according to the instructions of the sports stewards. Drivers and vehicles are not allowed to leave the place after that.
- The vehicles entitled to start will be lined up in pairs in the order of the achieved qualification results. The fastest qualifier, seen in the direction of travel, will stand on the left in the case of a standing start and on the right in the case of a rolling start. In case of a rolling start, until 45 minutes before the start, the competitor in pole position has the right to choose a place in the first row of the starting grid. The participant must register the use of this right in writing with the race director. There is no choice of starting place at the Grand Prix start.
- Vehicles that do not arrive on time at the starting grid must restart from the pit lane. Possible free starting positions will not be filled after the publication of the final starting grid by moving up, with the exception of free starting rows, which will be closed. Reserve drivers may be placed at the end of the starting grid up to the maximum number of starters allowed. Participants who restart from the pit lane have priority over reserve drivers.

- In the event that a qualifying session could not be held, the sporting commission will decide on the starting grid.
- For participants whose competition is held in two races, the starting grid for the second race will be determined according to the finish of the first race, unless the regulations of a series stipulate otherwise.

15.2. START MODE:

Competitors will be lined up in the pre-start according to the qualification result. Drivers arriving late can only be admitted after explicit instruction by the Race Director. Then any reserve vehicles that may be present may participate in the race with the express consent of the Race Director. This may be done until the "3 min" sign is shown. Late participants may enter the starting grid after the "5 min" sign only with the express instruction of the Race Director. If the race director allows the late participants to start, they can also start from the pit lane (please follow the instructions of the stewards).

A non-admission to the race will take place exactly when the maximum number of admitted vehicles according to this announcement has already been reached. Should vehicles appear at the pre-start after the "3 min" sign and the field has not yet reached the maximum number of participants according to the track license, the start of the competition is possible at best on instruction of the race director after the start of the field through the pit lane. These participants are not allowed to start the race until the whole field has passed the pit exit. They will be held up at the pit exit by the sports stewards. The traffic lights at the exit of the pit lane must be observed. After the "3 min"-sign only sports marshals appointed by the organizer and one start helper per vehicle are allowed to stay in the starting area. After the "1 min" sign, all persons must leave the starting area immediately. Third party start aids are allowed.

Rolling start (Indianapolis start):

1. After the "30 seconds" sign, when the displayed seconds have elapsed, the competitors will be indicated by a green flag or by showing a green light that they have to do an introductory/formation lap one after the other in the order of their starting positions behind a lead car. The distance between the vehicles should not be more than approx. 5 vehicle lengths.
2. The vehicles are led behind the lead vehicle (showing the yellow flag/or yellow flashing lights) across the race track to the start line (introductory/formation lap). Falling behind and start practice is prohibited and may be subject to a scoring penalty by the Race Director.
3. Overtaking during the introduction/formation lap is only allowed if a vehicle was late when leaving the starting grid and the vehicles behind - in order not to hinder other vehicles - could not avoid passing.
4. Vehicles that have not been passed by the entire field of competitors may overtake up to the grid sign to restore the starting order and resume their assigned starting position. Vehicles passed by the entire field of competitors will remain at the end of the grid and start from the last position. If more than one vehicle is affected, they must join the end of the field in the order in which they left the starting grid. A change of position as well as sudden changes of direction (zig-zag driving) to warm up the tires, after the grid sign are expressly forbidden. In such cases, it is the decision of the Race Director not to allow the start, to allow another formation lap or to impose a penalty.
5. After the lead vehicle has pulled out and the yellow flag has been lowered / the yellow flashing lights in the lead vehicle have been switched off, the race is under the supervision of the starter. Before the yellow flag is lowered / the yellow flashing lights of the lead car are switched off, the lead car must not be overtaken, even if it is already in the approach to the pit lane. The vehicles must approach the starting line at a constant speed in an orderly and closed parallel formation in two starting rows under the leadership of the vehicle in pole position. All vehicles have to pass the starting boxes recorded on their start page on the race track as starting corridors from the beginning.
6. The start signal is given
 - a.) given with the start light, by the starter switching the light from red to green,
 - or
 - b.) given with the national flag, by the starter showing the national flag raised from the starting platform and lowering it quickly for the start.
7. With the start clearance, overtaking is allowed.

Standing start (Grand Prix start):

1. After the "30 seconds" sign, when the displayed seconds have elapsed, a green flag or a green light will indicate to the competitors that they must drive an introductory/formation lap independently, one after the other, in the order of their starting positions. The framework, series or event regulations may stipulate a lead vehicle. The distance between the vehicles should not be more than approx. 5 vehicle lengths. Overtaking is prohibited during this lap. The medical car may follow the field.
 - a) Drivers have to raise their hand if their vehicle has not started or to make themselves clearly visible for the starter in another way (flashing lights, hazard lights etc.). These vehicles may only be pushed by sports stewards and start after the field in the introductory/formation lap. They remain at the end of the starting field, after the end of the introduction/formation lap they must take the last starting position(s). If more than one vehicle is affected, they must join the end of the starting field in the order in which they left the starting grid.
 - b) If a competitor restarts the introductory/formation lap under his own power before being overtaken by the last competition vehicle, overtaking to take the original starting position during the introductory lap is prohibited. At the end of the introductory/formation lap, the driver may resume his original starting position.
 - c) Vehicles that are pushed by stewards and whose engines do not start will be taken to the pit lane or another safe place by the stewards.
2. Trial starts are forbidden in the introduction/formation round. A test start is defined as stopping the vehicle until it comes to a standstill and then driving off at an accelerated pace (e.g. to warm up the tires).
3. After the end of the introduction/formation lap the correct starting positions have to be taken again.
4. After the participants are standing on their designated starting position, the green flag is shown by a sports attendant at the end of the field. After that, the starter will show the competitors the board "5 seconds" and after about 5 seconds, at the start by light signal, the start light will switch to red. After 2 to 3 seconds, the red light will be turned off, giving the start signal.
5. At the flag start, the national flag is slowly raised to the vertical and the start signal is given by quickly lowering the national flag.

Ruling:

Unless otherwise specified in the corresponding series regulations, the races will be started rolling. The organizer is entitled to choose another starting method. In case of bad weather it is up to the race management to decide whether a race will be postponed or the number of laps/race duration will be shortened.

A detailed schedule will be announced at the drivers meeting.
